CHICAGO	New model being developed. See notes.			Sue Nebel is a member and current Chairperson of the Leadership Team for the Diaconate in the Diocese of Chicago. Chicago shifted two years ago to a shared leadership model rather than an Archdeacon. We have also changed our formation process, which is now "in progress."	Cherryl Holt is leader of formation. cherrylh@msn.com	The new model is based on individualized learning with an assessment of previous education, informal formation, and life experience at the beginning of postulancy to determine levels of competence in the canonical areas identified for ordination. The postulant then develops a learning plan/contract and can pursue formation in a variety of ways.e.g. formal coursework, on-line learning, independent study, small group learning with mentor. We have not yet determined what the demonstration of competencies/ evaluation process will look like. Therefore, we cannot identify length of formation because it will vary. Same with cost	NOT YET KNOWN
