EXPLANATION:

- This is the minimum required for a new priest; adjustments of $500 per year of experience should be made for clergy years of experience.
- Cost of Living increase is computed using a 4% COLA.
- Church provided housing is computed at the lower of either the fair market value or up to 30% of the total compensation which is $21,647.29. In other words, this is the maximum imputed value of a rectory. The value of the rectory is constant no matter how many hours someone works.
 - The reason for using 30% is that this is the percentage that the average family in the USA pays towards housing costs...and thus is used when computing eligibility for a mortgage, for example. The cap at 30% is used in the church because some of our rectories are large mansions worth so much that even full-time clergy with generous salaries would have to pay to live in them! So the church across the country uses 30% of total compensation for a full-time position as the maximum. If the fair market value of your rectory is less than that amount, you then use that value instead. So if someone is working ¼ time and living in the rectory that is valued at more than $21,647.29, then the maximum amount of $21,647.29 is the value used in computing pension and SECA and that would meet the minimum required. If the fair market value of the rectory less than that, let's say $12,000, then the priest would receive cash compensation of the difference between that and $18,039.41 (1/4 time stipend, housing & SECA) or $6,039.41.
- Equity Allowance: Clergy who live in church-owned housing do not have the opportunity to benefit from the build-up of equity in their homes that is available to those who own their own homes. This affects their ability to purchase a home for retirement. For that reason, the congregation must pay into a tax-deferred account (such as RSVP) an amount equal to at least 4.74% of the Total Clergy Compensation each year. This is called a Housing Equity Allowance. The amount contributed is included in the pension fund assessment calculation (but not in the pension fund's calculation of the value of housing), and is not subject to SECA tax. It is a deferred compensation payment and, therefore, is not subject to Federal income taxes until withdrawn, usually after retirement. Because these are employer contributions, they are not subject to state taxes until withdrawn. (language from the Diocese of Newark compensation guide).
- Health Insurance: The premium is paid by the church according to the number of hours worked. So if a priest is full-time, the church pays full family insurance; if the priest is half-time, the church pays half the cost of the insurance. If the priest has insurance through their spouse, the parish pays the shared premium required by the spouse's employer and/or the actual deductibles and out-of-pocket expenses and/or pays an amount into a health savings account. You cannot just give that money to the priest as that violates IRS rules – it has to be paid into an health savings or retirement account to be tax-free.
- HRA - Health Reimbursement Arrangement. Each employee who is enrolled in a health insurance plan through the Medical Trust is eligible for this benefit. They must choose to participate in it each year. If they elect to participate, their employer will reimburse them for out-of-pocket co-pays and co-insurance once their deductible is met. For single individuals the maximum amount reimbursed per year is $1,500. For a two or more person household the maximum amount reimbursed per year is $2,000.

- Employee Contribution to Health Insurance Premium. For single coverage it is 2.25% of their salary/stipend (plus the value of housing if in church-provided housing). For all other levels of coverage it is 3.5% of their salary/stipend (plus the value of housing if in church-provided housing). If an employee elects to participate in a PPO 100 plan, they pay the difference between the PPO 100 plan and the PPO 90 plan plus 2.25% of their salary/stipend or 3.5% depending on their level of coverage. The employee's contribution to the health insurance premium is a pre-tax payroll deduction.
- 2023 Dental rates have not been released.
- Moving costs for full-time clergy are covered by the parish and include compensation for the additional taxes incurred (the IRS considers moving costs as taxable income). Clergy with unusual moving costs (e.g. you are also moving your live-in parents or are bringing a boat and an RV) are expected to cover a portion of those costs. For part-time clergy this cost is shared proportionately by priest and church.
